- To allow Employers who are authorised to use the Platform to confirm that your Accreditations (in particular that you have completed a particular course, your dates of attendance, the date and grade of Accreditation awarded to you and the Accreditation Provider) are correct. This will be done via a Blockchain – please see below. Such Employers will have access to your Accreditation Details (such as confirmation that you attended a Accreditation Provider, that you completed a particular course, your dates of attendance and the date and grade of Accreditation awarded to you) and any picture your Accreditation Provider has provided via the Blockchain by scanning a QR Code we create and which you may choose to make available to them.

WHAT IS A BLOCKCHAIN?

Details supplied to us by your Accreditation Provider (including details of courses you have completed, educational institutions you have attended and awards, certificates, Accreditations and grades you have attained) will be made available to Employers and processed by means of a Blockchain. A Blockchain is a digital ledger of transactions, agreements, contracts - anything that needs to be independently recorded and verified as having happened. The big difference between Blockchain and a regular database is that the former isn't stored in one place, it's distributed across several, hundreds or even thousands of computers around the world. Moreover, data in a Blockchain cannot be retrieved as it was uploaded, just verified as having been uploaded at an earlier point in time.

What are the advantages of a Blockchain?

Data in a Blockchain can never be tampered with, nor removed. This is because modifying the ledger would involve concurrently modifying the ledger on the majority of the computers that form the Blockchain. Currently, no one has the processing power to perform such an action. Moreover, strict cryptographic mechanisms are in place that enable unauthorised, local modifications to be detected and rejected.

How do we use it?

We currently make use of the Bitcoin Blockchain as a means to store the details provided by Accreditation Providers (although we may use any other Blockchain in the future at our discretion) and to allow them to be verified by Registered Employers.

WHO DO WE SHARE YOUR PERSONAL DATA WITH?

We do not rent, sell or share personal information about you with other people or companies except

- As part of our service we allow Employers who have registered to use the Platform to access (via your QR Code) the following information about you to confirm that they are correct: your name, Accreditations awarded and dates of award, grades attained, institutions attended and your personal photograph. You should not share your QR Code with anyone who you do not want to access these details
- Where you have created a personal Portfolio this may be viewed by Employers who have registered to use the Platform. Please do not upload any data onto your Portfolio that you do not wish to be available to such employers.

Gradbase is a company registered within the EEA and as such we commit to you that if you are an EU citizen where we share your personal data with a third party outside the EEA we will always use a process that accords with the law and our obligations thereunder as a data processor.
